Japanese Renounce Special Rights in Shantung

Progress Made Toward Settlement of Shantung Controversy Between Japan and China.

QUADRUPLE ENTENTE IN EAST IS SUGGESTED

Delegates Discuss Possibility of Four-Cornered Agreement to Supplant Anglo-Jap Treaty.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, December 5 .- Steps toward a settlement of the Shantung controversy were taken today at the resumption of conversations between the Japanese and Chinese delegations to the Washington conference when Japan agreed to renounce in the lease hold "all preferential rights with regard to foreign assistance in persons capital, and material stipulated in the Chino-German treaty of March 6,

These rights had passed to Japan under the operation of the Versailles peace treaty. They included the understanding that when any foreign assistance was needed in Shantung with respect to capital, material or men the Chinese government would first some to German (and later Japanese) merchants and manufacturer in procuring such assistance.

At the same time, an argreement was reached that the maritime customs of Tsing-Tao be made an integral part of the Chinese maritime ns system while the question of control of the Kiauchau Tsinanfu railroad was deferred for consideration at a later meeting.

Deferred by Japs. Action regarding the railroad, it became known at the conclusion of the meeting today, had been postponed after Saturday's conversations concerning the railroads at the re-While no reason was given, the Chinese delegation assumed, according to a Chinese spokesman, that the Japanese desired to communicate with China, on Saturday, reaffirmed its insistence that China be given an absolute, undivided control over the Kiauchau railroad. The question of the railroad, which is considered to be the heart of the entire Shantung dispute, is expected to be considered again on Wednesday, the

In reaching the agreement on the Tsing-Tao customs, it was stipulated that the Chinese government would recommend to the inspector general of customs that Japanese traders at this point be permitted to unicate with eustoms officials in the Japanese language.

The recommendation to be made to the Chinese government regarding the use of the Japanese language was agreed to as an alternative to the proposal by the Japanese delegates that the Japanese language be included as one of the official languages of the customs service. This proposal was rejected by the Chinese, who, however, in view of the inability of many small Japanese traders to speak Chinese, agreed that Japanese could be used in their communications with the Chise inspector-general.

A program, including and explaining effective means of combating the boll weevil, was adopted Monday morning by southern busines men, bankers and fertilizer manufacturers, who met in the Piedmont hotel on the call of the soil improvement committee of the Southern Fertilizer association.

This program was worked out b the staff of the committee, in co-operation, with the government agencies, mainly in accord with the findings of federal investigators.

President Wilson For Years Urged

Hollomon Says Harding Wins Fame by Following Wilson Footsteps.

> BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON, Constitution Bueau Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, December 5 .- (By The Constitution Leased Wire.)-The convening of congress today for the regular winter term of the sixty-sev enth session, marked the introduction of a federal budget system that had been fought for for years by a demo eratic president, Mr. Wilson having urged it in everyone of his several general messages. While the Dawes budget, as presented today, of approx imately three and a half billion of dollars for the next fiscal year, is below some of the earlier estimates, it is three times heavier than the total pre war appropriations, and a careful analysis of the preesnt budget not only omits some of the essential government supply items, but takes into accoun numbers of speculative "savings" that President Harding has dreamed of, but has not developed beyond the stage of uncertainty. It is, therefore, assured that heavy deficiency bills will be asked for enses, after the 1922 primary elections, despite the enormous figures carried in today's budget. The budget total had been accurately forecasted in The Constitution, also that it contained.

> That's Trio's new plan for laundering table and bed linens.

> We've been months perfecting it. Traveled the country over to see what other big launderies were doing, advised with them and received the benefit of their experiments. And now Trio is one of the few-the total number can be counted on your fingers - laundries in the United States that have this splendid

New Way: No-Mark Plan

The plan is simplicity itself. Perfecting it was the hard part. It simply means that your bed and table linens are washed separately just as if you were having them done at home. Thereby avoiding any chance of mixup or lost linens and washed without being marked with the unsightly and ugly laundry marks that mar fine linens.

There is no advance in price for this service. The cost is the same as the other Atlanta laundries charge for the old method.

an ugly wound in his left breast, and it was apparently made by a load discharged from a shotgun.

When White was taken from his home he was carried by the aasked party into woods nearby and there given a severe whipping. His body and face were both badly bruised and he has since suffered great pain. Three physicians have attended him and say that he will recover, unless unexpected complications develop. It was when the aged man was returning to his home, with the night riders, that his grandson opened fire on his assailants.

White heard the wounded man say that he was badly hurt, and asked them to place him in the automobile and hurry to Columbus so he could receive medical treatment. It is presumed that he died while in the car on the way to town. When Greene's body was discovered, a receipt in his pocket led to the establishment of his identity.

MORSE EN ROUTE BACK TO AMERICA

Paris, December 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—The steamship Paris, having aboard Charles W. Morse, whose presence is desired in the United States by the department of justice, Washington, sailed at 10:30 o'clock tonight for New York.

Prior to the departure of the vessel, Mr. Morse reiterated that he had received no reply from Attorney-General Daugherty to his request to be permitted to remain in Europe until January to undergo medical treatment. Likewise at the American consulate today it was said no reply had been received through it for Mr. Morse.

The powerful interests that must be affected by the limitation of armaments would undoubtedly have taken advantage of a slow beginning, or of protracted discussions, to organize resistance. the Good Lord only knows how to pronounce it.

I have long since found that it is ill-mannered to try to pronounce any of these foreign names.

Anyway, the prince is of high family prestige in Japan, being a descendant of the Shoguns, who ruled Japan for something like 300 years.

It is not hard to determine that fact by the way the others of the Nipponese government "look up" to him. He commands immediate attention when he comes and the utmost silence when he departs. Embodying as he does the ancient lineage of Japan anese nobility, it might be assumed that he would not be of such a commanding influence since the western civilization has democratised the empire—

Some of the shrewdest American minds connected with the conference are, and have been from the beginning, convinced that it alone stood between the world and the precipita-tion of an economic catastrophe. However small the immediate financial saying may appear when the prospective reductions of outlay on naval arma-ments are summed up in the light of the decisions of the conference, it should not be forgotten that these should not be forgotten that these reductions are only a germ from which much greater things may grow in more directions than visionless folk are yet able even dimly to perceive.

Success Forecast For Conference ByEnglishChiefs

New York, December 5 .- Acting as the mouthpiece of England in America, Arthur James Balfour told 1,000 members of the English-Speaking union at

He voiced the hope that this conference would be "the prelude to other great international actions which equal unselfishness," and praised the farsighted statesmanship which prompted President Harding and his abinet to bring its results about. Following his address, a telegram was read from Lloyd-George, in which the British premier stated his nation has been watching the "brilliant re-sult" of the arms parley, and likened its "rapid progress toward great results" to "sunlight piercing an overcast and threatening sky."

Balfour was introduced by John W. Davis, formerly American ambassador to England, who is president of the Speaking earnestly, Balfour "gladly admitted" that America had taken the lead in a move toward world peace.
"I am not sure that even Americans realize how great is the work that has been done," he said. "Perhaps it is the greatest international effort ever made.

"It is one thing to feel the necessity of doing something, but it is another to know how to accomplish it. Those who summoned the conference, arranged its program and guided its proceedings have shown the greatest imagination, insight and appreciation of the need of sacrifice. They have approached these problems in masterly, statesmanlike fashion and certainty of success is within their grasp."

Referring to the American show of the first day of the confernce, Balfour declared Secretary of State Hughes' proposals presented imediately showed Hughes to be "not

The question of a three or four-power agreement, to replace the Angio-Japanese alliance, is demanding in-Japanese alliance, is demanding in-creased attention among the arms delegates while they wait for Japan to define her position on the navai ratio. The last suggestion, contemplating an entente to include the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France has developed to the point where a tentative treaty draft is under consideration in some quarters, although it has not been formally presented to the conference.

question can be settled independent of political issues, although borne out thus far by the direction taken by the negotiations, apparently is not readily accepted in all quarters. A British spokesman recently declared that in the British view the naval and Far Eastern problems were bound up in the same sheaf and there have been indications of a like opinion among some Japanese despite the public announcement of Admiral Baron Kato that he was ready to consider a naval agreement without reference to the political considerations involved.

It is considered possible that in the present period of waiting, the two threads of negotiations may become so tangled in the foreign capitals as to give the American delegation con-siderable trouble in separating them when discussions here are resumed. It would not surprise some observers if there should be an attempt to make the final reply of one or more of the governments conditional upon a political agreement of one sort or another. Follows George Hint.

The proposal for a four-power en-tente as now advanced is considered an outgrowth of the suggestion of David Lloyd-George, made several weeks ago in parliament that the Washington conference might well consider merging the Anglo-Japanese alliance into an arrangement to which the United States would be a party. The Japanese have shown a disposition to take up that proposal, and it has been mentioned more than once to the American delegates during their informal conversations with their foreign associates.

These hints have never brought the subject to the point of a formal exchange of views, however, nor re-vealed even to the heads of the for-eign delegations just how far the United States might be willing to go in that direction. Neither will the American representatives discuss the question publicly. They are known to regard it as fraught with many complicated possibilities

Did Not Leave Scene After Killing Child, Claims Truck Driver

Accounts published Sunday of the death of little Elsie Dowda, who was killed by an automobile truck driven by J. M. Wright, were misleading, according to the driver, who furnished a statement to The Constitution Monday, in which he denied that he had left the scene when the accident occurred, and was not arrested until he returned to get his truck.

The statement follows:

Editor Constitution: In the Sunday issue of four paper there appears an account of an accident in which little Elsie Dowda was killed by an automobile truck. I desire to request that you correct one of the statements which does me a very grave injustice. I was the driver of the truck which struck the little girl.

In the account of the accident appearing in the paper it was stated that the call officers who made the arrest said that following the crash I fled, leaving my car abandoned at the scene, and that it was while I was returning, evidently with the call officers saw me and made the arrest. This statement if frue would make me deserving of the contempt of all decent people, and I feel that since it is absolutely untrue you should correct it. The fact of the matter is that when the accident lappened I immediately got out of the truck took the little girl in my arms and got in a passing automobile with her and went immediately to a drug store where I was advised to take the little child immediately to the hospital, and I got the hospital with me, holding the child in my arms, and went to the hospital and placed per or the account of the armount of the hospital with me, holding the child into the hospital with me, holding the child in my arms, and went to the hospital and placed to take the little child in my arms and went to the hospital and placed her on the cot provided there.

cism, nor do I desire to the newspapers a unfortunate matter in the newspapers at the present time, but I could not allow this statement to go unchallenged.

Christmas and Light!

The two are inseparably associated

Since that night nearly two thousand years ago when the first Christmas light appeared—the great "Star in the East"-LIGHT has been the symbol of the cheer, the good will and happiness that prevail on the glad Christmas Day.

Shepherd's Torches—Bundles of faggots crudely bound, or resinous woods that flare and blaze a moment in the darkness and are gone— Primitive Lamps of potted clay with, fiber wicks, burning animal oils, that struggle feebly to light a darkened world—

Altar Lights of hammered silver and beaten gold, cunningly wrought and set with precious stones, ever gleaming in the solemn hush of sacred shrine—

Metal Lamps in homes—lamps quaintly wrought of pewter, brass and copper, lamps with triple-tongued flames that begin to lift the gloom—

Candles—magic word!—on whose gold and silver gleams generations of poets have lavished their paeans of praise since the days of Shakespeare!

Lamps for Oil, mineral oil, at once the joy and bane of our mothers and grandmothers. Argand burners brought with these the first real lights worthy of the name.

Gas Lights—Wonder of wonders!—and those who lived in cities had no more "to walk in darkness!"

Then, "Miracle of Miracles!"—the wizardry that brought forth the electric bulb!

Since that day the art of all ages has combined to furnish suitable and appropriate mediums to diffuse the radiance of its all-reaching light!

What more appropriate gift for friends and loved ones than a GIFT OF LIGHT!

First Expansion

When too many cards accumulate behind any one guide for rapid reference, drop in a first expansion guide.

Second Expansion

When there is a still further accumulation of cards, drop in a second expansion guide. Thus, the name "Andrews" is filed behind A-N-D.

Third Expansion

When too many "Andrews" cards accumulate, separate them from all the other names beginning with A-N-D by dropping in an "Andrews" guide. Same for the "Bennetts," "Browns," etc.

The situation in Atlanta may be of the country, but it certainly is bad enough here.

For many months there has been hardly an issue of The Constitu-. tion that did not contain reports of such casualties.

Last Sunday, as a typical illustration, we had the story of a little girl run down and killed by a truck going, witnesses said, 40 nothing had happened.

It is the same old story: automobile, drinking "party" of men and women, pistols-climaxed by a killing. So it goes almost every day!

While the American public is demanding that an end be put to war and that peace between nations be established upon a basis of permanency, it is tolerating a domestic condition which, in point

Diligent and efficient service on prosecutors, supported and buttressed by strict, untempered justice on the bench, would provide the remedy.

But the remedy will never be produced by "the police were notified" or "the police are investigating;" nor by court delays, continuances, new trials, stays of execution, etc.: nor by releases on bond and the payment of fines; nor by allowing free citizens to buy convicted felons out of the chaingang! The remedy rests with the lawenforcement officials and the courts.

HOME FIRST CHOICE.

It scarcely needed the statistics given in an article in The Marion (Ohio) Star to prove that while something like 8,000,000 women and girls are at work in gainful occupations, they are constantly stepping out to become the housekeepers and homemakers of the country.

They are that, of course, in a limited sense, even while they are world, for they are helping the households that need their supplementary toil in so many instances, and "Home" is always their objective. And many, through the fruits of their labor, have homes of their own.

What they are looking forward to, as pointed out in the article in the Marion paper, is "the satisfaction of doing a woman's part in

That is why, as soon as possible, they leave good salaried positions and take their places permanently "the home-maker is the natural desire of women."

Many women-workers become home-owners because homes are purchasable on easy terms, and women know how to save.

It is well said that while necessity makes world-toilers of millions of them, their first choice is and would be, under any circumstances-Home.

WHAT THE MASSES WANT. President Harding is said to be bothered, if not actually disappointed, by the widespread attention that has been given, both in America and abroad, to his new "association of nations" sugges-

He evidently neither intended nor desired that the suggestion should have been snapped up and exploited as it has been by the press and the public of two continents; and from all accounts the formation of an international association has not as yet been even considered by the American delegation to the arms conference, to say nothing of the conference

The origin of the proposition, as it is explained by a Washington correspondent, was as follows: President Harding held his regu-biweekly conference Friday with the newspapermen. The latter asked questions on various sub jects, one leading up to another. In this way the president, apparently with no previous intention voice to his hope that this arms gathering might lead to future conferences out of which might issue some sort of a working association of the world powers for the regulation and maintenance of peace.

Evidently, it appears from this, the president had no idea that he was making news that would set the whole world by the ears; but the avidity with which the press took up his comment and telegraphed and cabled it to the four corners of the earth, and with which the people read and discussed it, is itself highly significant.

It shows simply what the public is thinking about, where its heart is, and what it wants miles an hour; also the story of make some sort of a move toward another little girl being struck by fulfillment of his campaign pledge in behalf of an association of nations-which was construed by pro-league republicans, without correction by him, as a veiled indorsement of the league of nations principle.

The sun was well up in the sky when Sycamore came in sight of a bunch of willows, and drew out his blanks. No man to be seen—no, not a living thing. He looked again, gazing long at the bunch of willows which clumped up below a spring, and while he was lazily watching it his man stepped out suddenly and stood upright in the sun. Then he walked to the spring, came back, and squirmed into his hole like a snake. There he was—Bravo Juan—and if anyone wanted him bad enough he could crawf in and bring him out.

Following instantly this victory. Alderman Goodhart introduced a resolution to purchase the Edgewood avenue site for the market. Mr. Couch countered by offering as a substitute for the whole a paper, differing in rerbage from his first, but referring that squirmed and twisted like a snake's, he struck and kicked and wrestled, grinding his strong teeth in an agony of effort and spitting with rage and venom. It grin and went back to get his horse. It was noon when he reached the mouth of that hole and the air was hot and heavy. Stripped to his overalls and shirt, barefooted and trembling with tense care, he lingered for a minute, listening; then with cautious fingers he picked the dry sticks from his path and crept silently into the thicket. In one hand he held a cocked pistol while the other cleared the way; in the ślack of his belt he had a second pistol, and of his belt he had a second pistol, and Lee Ruggles' handcuffs in his hippocket. The time had come when he was to meet Bravo Juan face to face, and he was going after him. Il he asked was an even break, and he did not expect to get that.

Bravo Juan was waiting or him, watching to get the first shot, but perhaps he could take him by surprise. Foot by foot he crept down the narrow tunnel, where wild cattle had horned their way in in order to escape the flies, and at every turn he peered around by inches, expecting to yet a

He was strong and his nerves were strung for the combat, but the Mexican was taken by surprise. Swiftly he twisted the outlaw's arm and pulled it up behind him; he whipped out the hand-cuffs and snapped one of them onto the wrist—and then Bray Luca back.

There was a pause, a shuddering struggle, and as he felt his hand-hold weaken Sycamore ducked before the coming blow and grabbed blindly for his spare gun. It was gone—and the chain-hung handcuff stung his shoulder. Again he grabbed for the arm, and as they

The blood was in his eyes now, blinding him, but he did not need to see. Jerking loose from the uneven condict he ducked and grabbed for the gun. The sharp, cutting corners of the chained shackles laid his head onen as he swung up to strike; and onen as he swung up to strike; and the struck something hard. Rising, in reply to the alderman's speech, Councilman Claude Ashley stated: "Mr. Carpenter says he can count on his hands the people who want a market. I'm going to vote to sustain the mayor's veto, and I'm proud of my vote.

Chairman Spratt ordered the veto to his feet and created a stir by de Alderman Goodhart rose to inquire what more authority the council could want for assuming full responsibility for the market than the approval of the finance committee and the bureau of municipal research. He charged that the effort to submit it to the peo-ple was simply an excuse to kill it.

Then Councilman Couch opened the fight anew by introducing a resolution to refer the whole question to the council of 1922. It was at once met with a motion to table. The vote was a tie, 13 and 13, which Chairman Spratt broke in favor of the motion to table.

Following instantly this victory, Alderman Goodhart introduced a resolution to purchase the Edgewood avenue site for the market. an easy way to save $2, and You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated augar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

HOW TO REVIVE THE ORIGINAL LUSTROUS TEX-TURE OF THE COMPLEXION

E VERY woman owes it to herself to look her best at all times, and there is nothing more beautiful than a clean, clear, well-cared-for complexion, but to have this, the skin requires constant care and attention.

All day long dust and dirt are grinding and lodging into the pores of the skin, blackheads are accumulating, wrinkles developing and wind and sun roughening and reddening, and in the proper treatment of the skin, one must necessarily follow two well established rules.

proper treatment of the skin, one must necessarily follow two well established rules.

First: the skin, to be kept clear, fresh and healthy and free trom wrinkles, must have a frequent application, by a brisk massage, of a good, pure cold cream with oil base. This is done at night, before retiring. Second: before applying powder, in order to produce a soft, smooth, velvety effect, the skin must have an application of greaseless (vanishing) cream that will reep it from becoming red, rough or thing.

The most parfect and complete combination for this beauty treatment will be found in Isls Perfect Gold Cream for No. 1 and Isls: Vanishing (Peraxide) Cream for no. 2. There is no complexion that cannot be improved by the proper use of these two creams, and if you would know what it is to have a most exquisite commlexion, get a far of each. Young Stribling Is Victorious Over Ferns in Great Struggle ON BAMBINO

Victory of Macon Boy Gives Him Second Belt Won in Atlanta-He Is Georgia Champion.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Young Stribling, the Macon flash, last night answered the questions that Atlanta's pugilistic fans have carried scrapped bim to a draw in Macon some months ago. Strib showed local customers to the point where now the discussion is not even worth an argument, that he is the Fearless one's management with the bightweight chamnaster, winning the lightweight championship of Georgia over a 10-round route, by decisively licking Atlanta's best offering in this division.

Sectional championships don't mean uch. The fact that W. L. Strbling is the lightweight champion of Geor-gia means about as much in the pugi-listic world as would a claim by Pal a real puncher, and one supposed to know as much about this slamming pastime as Stribling himself. In other words, Stribling had to fight, and a straight jab were his most effective weapons. This should not cause a ripple of surprise—it's Strib's best game. The body punishment served its purpose. By the fifth round Ferns was beginning to weaken perceptibly. In the seventh it seemed that he was gone. He rallied in the eighth, but he couldn't have hurt the youngster then, not if he had been given free rein to hit where and when he pleased. But Stribling didn't offer this chance. He went into a smug defense when it became necessary, but swung out of it quick enough to send Ferns back to think the matter over before coming in again. The left jab that Stribling pumped into the Fearless one's face showed the Atlantan more gloves than he thought could be man-ufactured in a decade.

Ferns Loses Teeth.

The jab hurt, no doubt about that. Ferns began to lose teeth early in the struggle and it wasn't long before any smash to the jaw was good for a flow smash to the jaw was good for a flow of blood. Stribling had no trouble getting to the point he was after. Some-times he alternated with a hard right that carried considerable sting, but his left was the glove that proved exceptionally effective.

The desperation of Ferns' battle

The desperation of Ferns' battle was its most outstanding feature. He carried the fight and earned as good as a draw in several rounds because ne did so, but he was besten from the start. Atlanta fight fans were rather of the impression that Ferns was stronger than the Macon youth. The realization that he was not was the first sign that the local fighter was about to get beaten.

The first exchange at short range provided the test that the experts provided the test that the experts looked for. They saw Ferns bend, flinch with pain at the blows that Stribling rained into the middle section. That was the end of the battle so far as the final decision was con-to dive in for some close milling and it was for this same reason that Ferns wanted to keep the firing at long range.

Just so long as he was able to withstand Stribling's superiority in this department did Ferns carry peril in his gloves. In the early stages before Stribling's great strength began to exact its toll, Ferns was keen after a knockout. He thought he could do it, and he wanted to accomplish the trick before his number lost too much trick before his punches lost too much power.

But he wilted, just when it seemed that he was about to stand up under the punishment. The turning point, I think, was the sixth round. Ferns had been the loser up to that point, but there was nothing on the surface that might have alarmed his adherents. He looked fine in the fifth, and came up for the sixth apparently in good shape.

He landed sharply with a left as he met Stribling in the center of the arena and he followed it up with a grand rush that threatened to spell something. He lashed out a right that missed by the fraction of an inch and Stribling retaliated with a right gia means about as much in the pugilistic world as would a claim by Pal Flournoy to Jack Dempsey's crown, but it is sufficient proof to southern fans that this Macon youngster is destined to go far before he calls his career finished and settles back to enjoy the financial fruits of his prowess.

The Kid is 17 years eld. During a year that he has been in the game professionally, Stribling has tucked away a couple of sectional championship belts in his trophy room, and to win them he had to defeat pugilists that were accorded more than even chances of stopping the little middle Georgia lad.

Against Real Thing.

Last night he was particularly up against the real thing. He was facing a fighter that had fought him a draw in Macon. He was pitted against a real puncher, and one supposed to know as much about this slamming pastime as Stribling himself. In others, and the strip in several hard smashes that must have hurt.

Ferns put in several hard smashes that must have hurt.
Stribling was hardly ready to fight at the start of action. This wasn't true of Ferns. The crowd wanted action at the jump and Ferns decided to provide as much as he was capable of giving. So he was the first to land. Stribling walked to the corner of the ring fooling with his glove. Ferns ran in, lashed out a long left and it connected.

His Rest Stunt.

His Best Stunt.

It was the best thing he accom-plished during the round. After a minute of fighting, Stribling wormed inside Ferns' guard and began the work of destruction by smashing short blows to the stomach. The Atlantan wearied of this stuff and broke away, only to take a couple of lefts to the face as he stepped back. The round was easily Stribling's.

Ferns looked much better in the second and was entitled to a draw.

He looked bad again in the second, wilked into a couple of newarful lefts. walked into a couple of powerful lefts and was in trouble several times. He staged a closing rally that the gong ended. The fourth was the poorest round of the entire fight, and Ferns round of the entire fight, and Ferns earned a draw.

The fifth was close enough to be called even by the judges, although the points that Stribling piled up at the start looked big enough to warrant him the shade. The sixth was Stribling's, but Ferns rallied in the seventh and climed off a portion of seventh and clipped off a portion of Stribling's advantage. The eighth Stribling's advantage. The eighth looked to be even, but Stribling had Ferns hanging on throughout the ninth. Both tried hard for knockouts in the tenth, but the Macon bat tler had the edge. The decision the judges was applauded by

In the third fight of the night, Battling Budd gave the experts a bad jolt when he had little trouble in defeating Kid Karst in eight rounds. Budd built up a wide margin on points, the soldier failing to carry a single round, and earning draws in but two. Kid Duggan won a moral victory by drawing with Jack Denham in six rounds. Baby Stribling, "W. L.'s" little brother, defeated Red Quinn in the four-round opener, and Hollis Sullivan won over Homer Pow-

New York, December 5.—(Special.)—Mar-ket has been extremely quiet and dull all day, being alightly easier after the noon hour. There is so little business that an expression of opinion is hardly worth much as the action of the market is entirely local as the action of the market is entirely local in character.

We hear, however, of many inquiries for shipments after the first of the year, running through until late spring. The bids are too low for business but it is indicative of a better demand in the not distant future.

Coffee.

New York, December 5.—An opening advance of 3 to 5 points in the market for coffee futures was promoted by higher milrels prices in Brazil and continued talk of unfavorable new crop prospects. March cold up to 8.51 and May to 8.45, making new high ground for the movement, but the buying movement was not general, while the advance attracted considerable realizing and prices eased off later to 8.41 for March and 8.58 for May. The close was net 5 points lower to 1 point higher. Sales were estimated at about 77,000 baks. December, 8.55; January, 8.44; March, 8.43; May, 8.43; July, 8.42; September, 8.47. Spot coffee quiet; Rio 7s 9½ to 9½; Santos 4s 11½ to 12½. Cost and freight offers were in light supply and generally firm including Santos 3s and 5s at 11.80 to 12.25; Rio 7s at 8.60 and Victoria 8s plus firm including Santos 3s and 5s at 11.90 to 12.25; Rio 7s at 8.80 and Victoria 8s plus 20 at 8.20, American credits.

The official cables reported an advance of 1.820 Rio exchange on London. The early cables quoted Rio futures unchanged to 7s reis lower and Santos unchanged, but later cables showed an advance of 100 to 1.50 reis in the Rio market and of 200 for the United States. Brazilian port receipts, 44,000; Jundiahy receipts, 30,000. The world's visible supply as of December 1 was 9,07s,401 bags, showing an increase of 209,789 for the month of November.

Sugar.

New York, December 5.—The local-raw sngar market was unsettled today and prices for new crop Cubas declined to the lowest level recorded in over six years, when 15.000 bags sold to a local refiner at 2%cost and freight, equal to 3.73 for centrifugal, for December shipment. The committee, however, reported me change in their quotation from 2% cents cost and freight, equal to 4.11 for centrifugal.

The raw sugar futures market was steadier early and prices at one time showed a slight advance on covering and trade buying, but eased off mear the close under scattered liquidation, owing to the decline in the spot market. Closing prices were unchanged to 2 points net lower. January and March closed at 2.16; May 2.27, and July, 2.36.

There was only a quiet trade in refined and March closed at 2.16; May, 2.27, and July, 2.36.

There was only a quiet trade in refined sukar, as buyers were inclined to limit operations to nearby requirements, owing to the unsettled feeling in the spot market. Prices were unchanged at 5.20 to 5.30 for the granulated.

Refined futures were without transactions and closing prices were 5 points lower to 5 net higher. January closed at 5.30; March and May 5.25.

New York, December 5 .- Maximum prices for the year were made by a umber of issues in the stock and bond lists today. Many of these gains were subjected to shap downward revision, however, in the latter part of the ses-

Rails followed their listless course of last week, investment and junior shares making only slight changes. Apart from several of the more speculative foreign and domestic issues, oils, notably American Petroleum, General Asphalt, Houston, Middle States and Transcontinental were relatively dull and irregular. Greatest activity and strength were shown by equipments, steels, motors and kindred accessories, shippings, food specialties and textiles made variable advances. Lima Locomotive, a comparatively obscure industrial, was the strongest feature at a net gain of 11 points.

gain of 11 points. Heaviness of tobaccos, leathers and a few of the unclassified issues evidently was due more to neglect by bull pools than to any specific causes. Sears-Roebuck continued to weaken, repeating its low record of the year. Forecasts of easier December money rates were fulfilled, the call loan rate dropping from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent ear the afternoon. chases of time loans and merchants paper were made by out-of-town in

Excepting the German rate, which was moderately reactionary, all for-eign exchanges rallied briskly from last week's late reaction. Sterling rose 2 cents and the various conti-nental bills were higher by 7 to 20

Liberty second and fourth 4 1-4s issues and the two Victory issues, the latter at a slight fraction over par, were among the new high rec-ords in the bond list. Other issues were uncertain on the heaviness of Mexicans. Total sales, par value, $21,850,000.

Chicago, December 5.—Wheat un-derwent a setback in price today, largely as a result of selling pressure due to more or less general relief from a new crop month, which touched a new low price record for the season. The weakness in July acted as a lrag on the old crop deliveries, Dedrag on the cember and May, and the market closed at the lowest level of the day. An estimate that 24,000,000 bushels surplus from the old crop still re-mained in Argentina was a late bearish factor.

Provisions were neglected on account of the packing house strike. Nominally, the market showed no important change. CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

inter her war-wrecked lover, contributed to the crowning triumph of her work.

N. St. Clair Hales, as Dr. Owen Harding, was most excellent in the role of the old friend and physician of the home; Orme Caldara doubly proved his ability and versatility playing two parts, and one instinctively liked the true sportsmanship of C. Bailey Hick, as Willie Aingley. In fact, the entire cast so ably supported Miss Cowl that it fitted into the evening as easily and perfectly as did the effective setting of old England.

The plot, as an entirety, is along simple lines. John Carteret, most ably played by Lawrence Grant, loses his bride on the eve of his wedding by a bullet sped by the jealous hand of Jeremiah Wayne, the rejected suitor. He never forgets his tragic loss, taking to his heart Kathleen Dungannon, child of the sister of his slain bride. Grown up, she falls in love with Kenneth Wayne, son of the murderer, and only through the influence of the spirit of the long-lost face and swaved so completely.

And the play, "Smilin' Through," seemed to have been written expressy for Miss Cowl rather than Miss lowl having been chosen as its star, every mood. Subtle humor, that brings complete enjoyment; appeal ing pathos, thrilling tragedy—al' woven with a master's hand in the three acts of Mr. Martin's play, and Miss Cowl sounded each to its very

The play will be at the Atlanta all week, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, and those who love the "Varieties de Dance," conceived principally for showing the wonderful dancing ability of Margaret Osborne, is the feature offering at Loew's Grand theater for the first half of the current week. This dainty and nimble young lady is at home in character dancing. The sketch takes one on a rapid journey through for-eign countries—Ireland, France, Japan and others. In each scene Miss Osborne contributes a dance charac-teristic of that country. Her toe dancing as well as acrobatic numbers are exceptionally well done. Pearce and Dunn, in their laugh sketch, "Your Little Wife," made a tremendous hit Monday night. wheels were not easy to buy here. They were kept in stock at comparatively few places and were seldom displayed. Today, however, a walk about any part of the town reveals in the windows of sporting goods shops and novelty shops wheels of all kinds con-spicuously on view. There are crude wheels with lithographed numbered the regular roulette numbering system, and mounting in size and price until the standard sized mahozany mounted wheel is reached. Storekeepers renort an unusual demand for these devices. With each wheel is sunplied of course, a regular table cover layout, squared and numbered.—New York Evening Post.

EVERYBODY IS DRIV-ING A USED CAR

DISMISS the idea that a used automobile is a piece of worthless machinery that somebody else has passed up because of unreliable performance.

Any car becomes a used car the first day it is out of the salesroom. More than often the only actual difference between a used car and a new one is a big difference in price.

Right now we are offering a fine assortment of exceptionally fine used cars at big reductions in price.

We will make you a liberal allowance for your present car. You may take advantage of our very satisfactory Deferred Payment Plan, so you may enjoy the ownership of a Cadillac, paying for it as you drive. It will PAY YOU TO PAY US a visit to see these cars.

A PROCLAMATION.

GEORGIA—By Thomas W. Hardwick, Governor of said state.

Whereas, official information has been received at this department that R. N. Berrien, Jr., during the months of October and November, 1921. embezzled state funds in the amount of $43,811,00 and escaped and is now fugitive from justice.

I have thought proper, therefore, to issue this my proclamation, hereby offering a reward of Two Hundred and Flifty ($250,00) Dollars for the apprehension and delivery of said R. N. Berrien, Jr. Description: Height about 5 feet 10 inches, weight about 200 pounds, age about 45 years, florid blond complexion, clean-shaven, speaks rapidly, jerky sentences. With evidence sufficient to convict to the sheriff of Fulton county and state.

And I do, moreover, charge and require all officers in this state, civil and millitary, to be vigilant in endeavoring to apprehend the said R. N. Berrien, Jr., in order that he may be brought to trial for the offense with which he stands charged.

Given under my hand and seal of the state, this 30th day of November, 1921.

In her address, Mrs. Bachus also In her address, Mrs. Bachus also gave further information about the ideals and purposes of the society. "I accept this charter," she said, "in behalf of the Fifth District Society of Dental Nurses and Assistants, and promise that we will always conduct ourselves with such dignity and layolty to the dental profession, and use all the influence in our power to promote dental progress.

"We expect our society to increase our efficiency. This charter carries with it a meaning to us that is hard to express in words on this occasion. I hope that it will never happen that one of us may be so thoughtless as to B. L. McGough, former chief stock

B. L. McGough, former chief stock room clerk, and one of the oldest men in government employ, made a few remarks. Walter Trippe, who for the last eight years has held the position of general office deputy under the former administration, paid a high tribute to Mr. Blalock. He said:
"Typical American that you are Typical American that you are, your career again demonstrates that merit will win. Though a strict disciplinarian yourself, you have always ruled with justice tempered with moderation, and you have been the friend of every one of us. When you have gone to the high place that you will most surely achieve some day, remembers the surely achieve some day. one of us may be so thoughtless as to one of us may be so thoughtless as to discuss the question of salary, or the number of hours we have to remain on duty, for we offer our services to help humanity, and let us hold our standards higher than a selfish aim."

The question of forming a state organization, similar to this society, was broached at the meeting. It was pointed out that there is only one similar state organization in the United States, that in Iowa.

similar state organization in United States, that in Iowa.

In the speeches delivered by the dentists present, it was declared that their women assistants were an abwas presented with a handsome mahogany chair, A. A. Rose, deputy collector, making the presentation speech. In behalf of the custodian force of the building, U. S. Seals, assistant custodian, presented Mr. Blalock with a handsome silver loving cup.

Many changes are being made in the personnel of the office of collector of internal revenue for Georgia by Mr. solute necessity in their work. "They have come to stay," said one, "and they will be one of the greatest factors in developing oral hygiene and prophylarie" prophylaxis.

The other officers of the society are Miss Martha Goodman, first vice pres-ident; Mrs. Fannie M. Evans, second vice president; Miss Mary E. Rito, secretary, and Mrs. Ella B. Ray,

The society, which is named the "Fifth District Society of Dental Nurses and Assistants," was organized in Atlanta one month ago. Its purpose is to organize the dental assisting ants of Atlanta for social purposes and education. Meetings are held on the second Monday of each month, when a dinner is held and assistants problems discussed. It is probable that prominent local dentists also will be called upon to address the meetings. Although this is probably the first organization in Atlanta of the women of any profession, it was expressly stated by officials of the society that the organization is not connected in any way with "union" purposes. As Mrs. Bachus, president, said in accepting the society's charter, "We hope that no one will be so thoughtless and so unkind as to call our society a union."
